Winnifred Agricultural Fair

The fourth annual show of the above Society was held at Winnifred on Monday last, glorious weather prevailing throughout the day. The attendance was very satisfactory, probably about a thousand people being present.

This exhibition, as mentioned in a previous issue of the Review, was to have been held on September 26th, but for certain reasons was changed to August 14th. This alteration no doubt affected the exhibitors to a considerable extent, and probably accounted for the small number of exhibitors in the roots and vegetables class. The officials of the Society, however, believe this will be much improved another year, and that the earlier exhibition will be found eventually to be the best. Probably also, steps will be taken to interest the farmers more in the stock entries. Anyone acquainted with the district would never venture to assert that the stock entries seen on Monday were thoroughly representative of the surrounding country. As it stood as they were, one could nevertheless submit quite a list of Winnifred breeders whose stock, especially during the last two or three years, have improved to such an degree that one marvels at the facility displayed by the owners in keeping them out of the exhibition. The Winnifred Agricultural Society is fortunate in its officers, the president and secretary especially having been extremely energetic, and it is to them officers that the members of the Soc. largely owe their thanks for the excellent display on Monday.

7,000,000 Women Work

Filling the Places Vacated by Britons

It is estimated that the number of women in the British Isles exceeds 7,000,000.

The wholesale withdrawal of men from the commercial and industrial trades has created a large demand of maintaining the industrial output of the country, which can only be met by the training of women to take their places in every field of industry, from the kitchen to the factory, from the office to the shop, from the mine to the dock, and even young girls before they go to school are learning to work.

Women are at the lathe, in overalls and twelve-hour shifts on the motor buses or ashing metal, and in the factories, mills and distilleries.

It has been recalled in connection with the melting down of church bells in the First World War that all Cork's church bells were taken down and made into artillery, remarking that if it had been a priest, it was fitting the bells should be turned into "canons."

New C. P. Station at Toronto

The old C. P. station in Toronto has been leased to the City for the nominal rate of $1 per annum. The money will be used for the maintenance and operation and, with its modern facilities and accessories, is giving great satisfaction to the public.

The station is in the heart of the city in which it is situated has grown enormously during the past few years.

The C. P. is doing a great deal in accomodating present needs, but in anticipation of the future, it is building largely and substantially in all large centers of population throughout the country.

What with the north end station in Toronto and the new station in the south end, which will be finished next year, Toronto is being rewarded at last with the facilities which have long been denied the Queen city for many years.

Professor Lounsbury of Yale, is a for the parson and pedant. On his return he said, "I am glad to see out across the lake one grey and sultry afternoon and remarked:

"A pedant was seated in a rocking chair nearby.

"What looks like rain, professor?" he chuckled. "Ha! Ha! I've got you there." Professor Lounsbury answered coldly.

Scarcity of feed and low prices for poultry in the fall of 1914 caused a thinning out in flocks in Manitoba and Saskatchewan during the winter last year. As a result Manitoba's egg production was less than spring that was two years ago.

Better Eggs? It was Shakespeare who said, "Sweet are the uses of adversity?"

Shakespeare may have said it originally, but it is now known who had pocketed 65 per cent of an estate.—Boston Transcript.

Grape-Nuts

(Made in Canada)

embodies the full, rich nutriment of whole wheat combined with malted barley. This combination gives it a distinctive, nutty flavor, unknown to foods made from wheat alone.

Only selected grain is used in making Grape-Nuts and through skillful processing it comes from the package fresh, crisp, untouched by hand and ready to eat.

Through long baking, the energy-producing starches of the grain are made wonderfully easy of digestion.

A daily ration of this splendid food yields a marvelous return of health and comfort.

Boy Scout Movement

Valuable Work Done by the Boy Scouts in Connection With the War

It has been no small part that the Boy Scouts have played in this war. From a systematic enemy, expert in digging pot-holes, they have a fine record of alertness and spirit.

Their efforts in the time of stress and strain will long be remembered. Bay Scouts are loading munition parcels, wheeling trolleys, and helping to sort the mail. The Lancashire, Cheshire and Yorkshire are sending to the troops. To be very thrilling and important matter, and, of course, the Bay Scouts are doing their best.

From the Scout's point of view, he has been the patrolling of parts of the country, the patrols which exist in existence in 1913. The aims and purposes of the Boy Scouts of America are those of the Boy Scouts Association in Canada.

The Boy Scouts of America is a military in those points of spirit, although it does not buy in boys in uniforms, color, an appetite and was constantly troubled with headaches from the doctor, but it did not do a particle of good. One day Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

THE BOW ISLAND REVIEW.

W. F. COTTON, proprietor.

The glowing crop reports sent out from Southern Alberta, coupled with the fact that insects in certain are going to consume big crops, are largely responsible, we presume, for the enormous number of mail order catalogues that have been sent to this district. That this message (or, regardless of the views of some, it is a menace) will have to be fought without saying, Calgary has already, through regular advertising, taken steps to fight the system of the mail order house, and it is now up to the small towns to follow its example.

Many blame the farmer for being the chief culprit of this out-of-town business, oblivious of the fact that the townsman is equally guilty.

That practically nothing is being done to bring any change in our population and prosperity, is quite evident. Those in a position to know, tell us that about three times as much is sent out of the town to mail order houses as is spent in town, and nothing is being done to prevent this leakage to our property. That our own merchants with their small operating expenses could sell as cheaply as the large mail order firms, we do not doubt, and that the customer could be as well satisfied, and generally better satisfied, after purchasing from our own men, than by sending to some outside firm, they hasn't a dollar invested in any neighborhood, he is equally as certain.

Now who is to blame? We believe that the business men themselves are largely to blame. Some have brought the few dollars a year that it would cost, to keep their name before the public through their local paper, while the mail order firms have flooded the country with tons of catalogues and price lists, and would fill the local paper with their advertisements, but for the loyalty of the editors to the interests of their own district.

Some of our business men have been weighing these problems and have determined to compete with all outsiders, and are ready to prove to any one that it pays to deal at home.
Those advertisements can be seen in this paper, and their loyalty to their town and district is unquestioned.

There is one thing that we are all of, if that the money that is made in the neighborhood was spent there would be better for everybody.
We need more co-operation, more a community spirit. Not the cooperation of certain classes which becomes antagonistic to every other class, but the co-operation of the whole community to make Bow Island a bigger and better place, and by doing so increase the value of every foot of land in the district.

Now while we have been placing the blame for the sprighty that exists, we are not unconscious of our own fault. If the local paper serves any purpose at all, it is as a medium of information between the town and country, between the merchant and his customer or prospective customer.
The Review going out every week to all parts of the district, carrying its weekly messages from the business men of our town, cannot fail to have its effect in the vicinity.

Serbia.

AMONG so many suffering Serbia must not be forgotten. She did not hesitate to challenge immensely superior forces. She fought with immen-sive courage. It is a matter of pride that needs no praise of ours.
She contributed greatly to our cause by refusing any terms of battle.

Little she received—and now lies dead. A nation is exile! Living, God knows how, on the providence of our hands, till such time as we win back her soil and restore her children to their native land.

These dear martyrs is a personal loss to our hearts and our cause.
We must not shun this responsibility.
Many writers in modern periodicals have tried to describe the retreat of the Serbian army. One we recall, an American woman who led a red cross army with the skill and courage of a General, told of the patience and endurance of the Serbs under stress that would have shattered less noble-minded folk. There is the east part of the war compared to that of the Serbs.
We must not forget this.

The crop reports of the Canadian Bank of Commerce just received from Nanton and Clarendon, Alberta, tell of serious damage in those districts from the Hessian fly. The report from Nanton speaks of a possible 2 per cent. damage in some fields. The Clarendon report states that the insect is very noticeable there but does not mention percentage of damage done yet. Two Calgary hail insurance adjusters, on returning from the south country state that the Hessian fly is prevalent in many districts in the southern section and is multiplying with rapidity. The hail insurance in state that there would be more serious complaint of the fly in that region if it were not for the fact that many of the farmers never having had previous experience with the insect do not recognize it.

The cooler weather obtaining during the last few days should encourage the farmers to get out and try to move anything set down, but the weather has not been so cool in the Nanton or Clarendon districts, and up to the past few days it has been extremely sultry in that part.

The Hessian fly eats at the grain stalk and withers the grain. In some cases it causes a very serious loss, the worst of the damage not being ascertained by an inexperienced eye until harvesting. It is the first time it has been known to become serious in this province, state the grain men who have been located here for years.

State Socialism

Sweet as Extension of System Predicted For Germany

If shows show what the wind blows there is to be a sweeping extension of socialism in Germany. That country's foremost writers on economics and finance are agreed that the time of attention, and much is being done by the various cities and smaller municipalities, at the moment, the government has a sugar and cigarette monopoly, and the post office is subject to the special Berlin correspondent of the New York Sun. What was seriously considered even before the war?

As regards the municipalities, they are under pressure of the British food blockade, because of the highest possible supply of food stuffs for the urban population. For instance, such towns as Hanover and Berlin have been compelled to give up municipal cultivation, and it is intended to this improve the supply situation in the near future.

Frankfurt is to erect a municipal slaughter house, while Hanover has large scale. Coblenz has bought cattle and pigs in large numbers to be slaughtered.

The Berlin papers are inclined to look upon these economic and social changes as good signs. They contend that there is altogether too much land and once they can get this land under cultivation and put to useful purpose the better for the country as a whole. And once they have learned to feel the necessity to look to the outside world for supplies as was done previously to the present war.—Toronto Sun.

Tried to Steal a Secret

German Officer Thought He Had Fooled the Japs

Shimose, the high explosive which the Russians used in their bombs, is the secret of the Japanese. For years the Germans have been developing a secret weapon while on a state visit with his adjutants, he showed a sample. The commander, when he thought he was not observed, took the explosive out of its case, conveniently hide in his hand, and having no other place to put it walked into the tall pocket of his green great coat, afterwards wiping his hands. When he reached the entrance, their "waking-skin" in Paris had also to be put back in the coat pocket, and, after a few moments, he was seen to escape the bullet of storm or the shell of shell. The freedom of the sea was won.

In our communications we shall review the ways in which we can add to the power. A little fleet will be enough to stop the surface, an everlasting peace begins, but if it is not long, the pea's a' peaple will be able to catch the fish in the green pastures of Tenebre. Attempts may be made to sink the peaple's ships and other submerged vessels, but it is doubtful whether the vibration of information will convey sufficient information.

A German Prediction

Written Three Days Before the German Offensive

We must be prepared for the Germans, and as prophets no one will proclaim them exemplary. Their pre-arranged plan is to make war. Their "waking-skin" in Paris had also to be put back in the coat pocket, and, after a few moments, he was seen to escape the bullet of storm or the shell of shell. The freedom of the sea was won. We have a notion that the prediction shared the fate of all others, and that it was after the war. It didn't come true, but it did not go away.

The sincerest thing, however, in German prophetic art was issued just three days before the grand offensive began. It was published by the organ of the Kaiser, the Berlin Lobe.

Hitting Back

At a certain church in a Jersey town it is the inviolable custom for the bride after the ceremony. A young woman who was about to do so, but did not care to risk the prospect and instructed her prospective husband to wait until the church door was closed to kiss her. The bridegroom obeyed the instructions given him well, but, when he appeared, did you tell the minister that I did not wish him to kiss me?

"Yes."

"What did he say?"

"He said, 'If that's the case, he would only charge half the fee,'

Germany's Great Idea

In a leading article, "The Vossische Zeitung," an influential paper, counsel to instruct the interned prisoners in Germany in a knowledge of the language.

It urges: "Teach these English, French, and Russians, the language of their captors, and you will be enabled to grow the cordiality and sympathy for Germans and ourselves." Outside Leipzig, remarked on hearing of the proposal—submitted to the men who were to be interned—whether you could give sympathy, give us better grub?"

To Take a Stomach

As soon as you see a flash of lightning, you can easily determine how far the thunder claps in this manner you can easily determine how far the lightning is from you. If the speed of sound is 10,000 miles a second, we may for all practical purposes regard ourself as stationary, and the constant blazes. But sound travels 1,007 feet a second. Multiply 1,007 by 10,000 and you get 10,070,000. The India later was assigned to duty in the Arctic Circle, suddenly sighted a periscope five hundred yards away, and, before they opened fire, she safely launched, but Fielding, with others of the crew, leaped into the water. After swimming for two hours and a half hours, he was rescued by a Swedish ship and taken to Narvik, Norway, where he was interned.

A German merchant ship that had after being interned in Norway was overtaken and sunk by the Indians. The India later was assigned to duty in the Arctic Circle, suddenly sighted a periscope five hundred yards away, and, before they opened fire, she safely launched, but Fielding, with others of the crew, leaped into the water. After swimming for two hours and a half hours, he was rescued by a Swedish ship and taken to Narvik, Norway, where he was interned.

British government secured his release on the ground that he had gone to the Indians to be interned, and the Indians were still in the water.

Terms of Peace

American Paper Comments on Opinion Expressed by Lord Bryce

No Englishman has a higher opinion of the German public than Lord Bryce, and his statement of the reasons why the allies cannot consent to a permanent peace will be of interest to all Americans. Any official pronouncement would have been made at a luncheon in London to honor Sir James Geddes, who said that he had received an address from the German Emperor, a large proportion of whom had come from Germany, urging that, since the war was a draw, it was time to make peace at once, and to end further bloodshed. The plan is not mentioned, but it is not far-fetched to say that it was not in so many words, by the German government.

Lord Bryce's opinion is that the war is not the least likely to be ended by a peace treaty.

He says that the allies have too many sacrifices to be contrasted with that. They are bound to fight to the last, and the allies have done their best to win the war.

Germany has been amply justified in its claim that the German government encouraged and which must at all costs be fought to the last.

Lord Bryce's opinion is that the German government is not yet fully convinced that the war must be ended, and that it is not yet fully possible to end the war.

It is an irreconcilable conflict.

Even if the German government should accept President Wilson's theory that we have no concern with its causes, that it is not our business to be involved, that we should seek for peace with no regard to the issues at stake, it is not the opinion of the waging man.

It is not the opinion of the German government.

The most important new work which has been undertaken by the Dominion parks branch of the department of the interior in the last two years is the measures taken to preserve the prong-horned antelope, which is now in imminent danger of extermination.

at the time of the first settlements in the west the habitat of this animal covered 2,000,000 square miles, and the number averaged 10 to every square mile. In 1860 there was probably less than 100,000 living, half of which were in Mexico, and in 1912 Hornaday stated that the rapidly vanishing herds might last 20 years, but in Canada unless

The chief difficulty encountered in trapping and collecting is that it is so delicate and sensitive to shock that it dies from the excitement of capture. Attempts to breed antelopes in Buffalo park have met with no success.

It was recently decided to attempt to preserve this animal by creating carefully selected reserves, containing all the necessary plant growth, and a suitable winter and summer pasture. Mr. Thompson-Steel and Mr. Maxwell Graham, chief of the animal division of the parks branch, finally selected six reserves in Alberta and two in Saskatchewan.

Early last spring the R.N.W.M.P. scuttled the traps that there was a herd of antelope near Fort Macleod. A herd discovered near the junction of two deep coulees was enclosed with a 12-mile fence. There are 42 antelope in the enclosure. Further, by means of wing trap devices on two sides of the reserve, it is expected that the antelope in the vicinity will be secured.
